To our knowledge, SFPD has had no data breaches or any other type of information systems compromised.

Is there any danger to officers or their families?

The Technology Division is unaware of any existing or potential danger to officers or their families.

Has the department taken any additional precautions to protect data or officers?

SFPD Technology Division, in cooperation with the City and County of San Francisco Department of Technology's Cybersecurity Team, go to great lengths to fortify our data environments and protect the integrity of our networks. We use the latest technologies and strategies to ensure the security of our networks and associated data.

Has any SFPD data or information been compromised, and if so what and how?

Is there any danger to officers or their families?

Has the department taken any additional precautions to protect data or officers?

Thank you,
